

Chamber Sets Fund Project

At its Jan. 12 meeting, the Nunda Chamber of Commerce presented plans for a fund-raiser.

The Buffalo Bills and the Nunda Fire Department will compete on the basketball court at Keshqua Central School (Nunda Building) at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Mar. 4.

Prior to the game, from 5 to 7 p.m., the Nunda Rotary will serve dinner in the school cafeteria. Tickets from members for both events will be available soon. There will be opportunity to win an autographed football which will be awarded at halftime of the game.

The next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held Tuesday, Feb. 9, at noon in Keshqua Central School (Nunda Building). Everyone is welcome to attend.

To Serve Town of Nunda in New Year Board Names Officials

Prior to the first Nunda Town Board meeting of the new year on Monday, Jan. 4, Justice Willard "Mike" Essler administered the oath of office to six town officials.

Each was re-elected to their respective positions in November. All incumbents are Gerald Johnson, supervisors; Sam Gullo and Phil Brooks, councilmen; Thelma Thompson, town clerk; Charles Carlson, highway superintendent; and Sue Brooks, tax collector. Others in attendance included Justice Terry Lowell, Councilmen Carl Didas and Bradley Lowell; Theron Foote, attorney; Bruce Knapp, town assessor; Martin Livingston, zoning enforcement officer.

During the board's organizational meeting, appointments for 1988 were made. They include Thelma Thompson, registrar of vital statistics; David Thompson and Merilee Walker, deputy registrars of vital statistics; Phil Brooks, deputy supervisor; Hugh Thompson, deputy highway superintendent; David Thompson, deputy town clerk; Martin Livingston, zoning enforcement officer. Harry Zintel was reappointed chairman of the Planning Board while Gene Clark was again named to lead the Assessment Review Board. Patricia Foote will continue as chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals. Thomas Cook was named the town historian.

Other appointments include Central Trust Co. and Wyoming County Bank, official depositaries; Genesee Country Express and Hornell Evening Tribune, official newspapers. Bruce Knapp will continue as appointed town assessor.

Other board actions included the establishment of rates and frequency of pay for police and highway employees. Elected officials salaries were fixed at the 1988 budgeted amounts. Regular meetings were set for the second Monday of each month, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Hall. The town clerk's hours and calendar were approved by the board.

Upon the recommendation of Supervisor Johnson, the board unanimously approved the appointment of the St. John and Baldwin accounting firm as town accountants for 1988.

Board committees were established by the supervisor as follows: highway and equipment; Carl Didas, chairman; finance, legal and insurance, Bradley Lowell; youth, Sam Gullo; police, Phil Brooks, town police commissioner; Johnson, employee wages and benefits.

The board approved a resolution combining all three town election districts into one for the local registration day held in October at the Town Hall. For voter registration on this day, all town residents who wish to re-register may do so at the Town Hall. This combining of districts for registration purposes is a tradition over the recent few years.

Two additional appointments were made Jan. 11. Edward Fluker was named to a five-year term on the Planning Board and Helen Orloff was re-appointed to a five-year term on the Zoning Board of Appeals.
